GENERAL WU BEGINS OPEN WAR AGAINST NEW PREMIER

Swears To Bring About Liang's Downfall In Statement

MAKES CHARGES

Asserts He Is Bringing Disaster By Selling His Country

(Staff Wire to China Press)

Peking, Jan. 19.—Previous conflicting reports concerning the attitude of Gen. Wu Pei-fu toward the Peking Government and particularly toward the new Premier Liang is set forth in a aside, and the fact that General Wu is openly hostile toward Primier Liang is set forth in a statement that was issued on Wednesday by General Wu himself.

This is the first public statement that General Wu has issued. In it he makes plain the position he intends to take and he addresses it to the general public as the statement is conveyed in a telegram to the Chung Mei news agency. A literal translation of the message sent out by General Wu in answer to a query that was addressed to him is as follows:

"In reply to your telegram of the sixteenth I beg to state that Liang Shih-yi is bringing disaster upon the people by selling the country.

"People whose sole purpose is to protect the sovereign rights of their country are running about crying aloud their unanimous demand for the punishment of Premier Liang. Voicing the will thus expressed by the people I have telegraphed repeatedly pointing out the crimes of Liang and I swear I shall not relax my efforts in this direction until I have achieved the downfall of Liang.

"In adopting this attitude I am acting in accordance with the ancient proverb which says 'Love what the people love, hate what the people hate.'

"I have no personal love for anyone, no personal grudge against anyone. Henceforth my attitude toward the administration and the State will be one of respectful obedience to the expressed will of the people."

This message was sent by General Wu to Peking from Loyang.

Peking, Jan. 19.—The President is reported to be opposed to the formation of a Cabinet by the Yen Chiu faction because the latter is said to be willing to sacrifice the president, Hsu Shih-chang, and thus unite with the South.

Dr. W. W. Yen has refused to act as Premier and Pao Kuei-ching, Minister of War has been approached. The President is discussing the matter with Chang Tso-lin, Tsao Kun and Wu Pei-fu.

The Yen Chiu faction is advocating the appointment of Wang Shih-chen as premier, and members of their party will hold important portfolios. They have asked Wu Pei-fu to make the proposal and Wu has now telegraphed to the President expressing his opinion.

Chao Yu-ao and Tsao Ying have recommended the appointment of Wang Cheng-ping as Tuchun of Kiangsi. They have asked Tsao Kun to make the recommendation to Peking. Wu Pei-fu is demanding the retention of Chen Kuang-yuan, thus placing Tsao in an embarrassing position.

Former Premier Chien Neng-hsun and a number of others have petitioned to the President recommending the pardon of Li Shih-hao. Chiang Kuei-ti and others have recommended the pardon of Wang Yi-tang. These petitions were handed to the Cabinet at the same time as the one asking for the pardon of Tuan Chi-kuei, but so far no action has been taken in the matter. When asked about this, Liang Shih-yi said that he did not wish to outdo the law hence the matter was pending.

FARMER FINED FOR POSSESSION OF BANNED DRUG

For being in possession of opium a farmer arrested by Detective Sergeant McDermott on Honan Road Wednesday was fined $20 at the Mixed Court yesterday.

Detective Sergeant McDermott's attention to the matter was drawn by the sight of a crowd which had gathered. He was informed that some loafers had tried to snatch opium from a countryman. The latter, on seeing the foreigner, ran up an alleyway and took refuge in a tailor's shop, where he was captured. When searched at the station one packet of opium was found and the captive declared that another which he had been carrying had been stolen by a Chinese constable who assisted in making the arrest. Investigation of this charge led to the discovery that the missing packet had been picked up during the struggle in the shop by a stranger who made away with it. The farmer gave the police the address of a shop in Central district where he said he had purchased $100 worth of the drug. The police are investigating this phase of the matter.

Premier Assures Government Men They'll Get Salary

Chinese telegrams received here yesterday reported that at Wednesday's cabinet meeting Liang Shih-yi announced that, with the proceeds coming from the treasury bonds secured by the Salt Revenue for $7,000,000 and with a further sum of $3,000,000 from the salt surplus, the staffs of the government offices are assured of their pay in full by the New Year.

The tax on native cloth, it was said, will be held over for another year, after which exemption will be discontinued. A sum of $598,200 is reported to have been set aside for improvement of the judiciary system and as expenses for preparation for the abolition of extraterritoriality.

'TIGER' MAY REASSUME AUTHORITY IN FRANCE

Former Premier Said To Be After Poincare's Scalp

WANTS TARDIEU

Interesting Development In Politics Expected Soon

BY WYTHE WILLIAMS

Special correspondent of the Public Ledger and THE CHINA PRESS.

Paris, Jan. 19.—The refusal of Andre Tardieu to enter the new Poincare cabinet is an indication of extremely interesting developments in French politics in the near future. This refusal is interpreted here as indicating the hostility of former Premier Clemenceau to the new government, despite the fact that both he and Poincare agree that the Versailles treaty should be interpreted on extremely nationalistic lines, and in the desire to drive Briand out of public life. They are not in unison, however, on any other point.

It will be recalled that during the war, when Poincare was president, he summoned Clemenceau to form a cabinet, which was very much against his will, and that the "Tiger" accepted on condition that Poincare efface himself, which the latter was compelled to do.

There are indications that this old feud has been resumed, and that at an early date Clemenceau will open an onslaught against the new premier. Clemenceau does not desire to return to office personally, but he does desire to destroy Poincare politically, and put Tardieu in his place as Premier.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Jan. 18.—It is understood that invitations to the Genoa Conference have reached the governments of Great Britain, the United States, Russia, Holland, Austria and Czecho-Slovakia.

According to a telegram from Riga the Soviet Government will request the Conference to discuss the question of the payment of Russia's debts, compensation for the losses incurred by Russia as the result of foreign intervention and the return to Russia of the warships seized by General Wrangel, etc.

It is believed that Mr. Lloyd George will represent Great Britain and Dr. Wirth, Germany. The Journal des Debats points out that the plan of the questions to be discussed at the Conference has received much favor in Germany.

The German Government has informed the Entente cabinets that it is actively preparing the reforms demanded.

In regard to the participation of the United States in the Genoa Conference, the Paris edition of the New York Herald states that American circles are inclined to believe that the recent motion of Senator McCormick regarding European military budgets might prevent America from taking part, but, on the other hand, it is pointed out that at Cannes Colonel Harvey, the U. S. Ambassador in London, conveyed the impression that the United States would be represented at the Conference.

(Special To The China Press)

Moscow, Jan. 18.—It is officially announced that Lenin will head the soviet delegation at Genoa.

Moscow, Jan. 18.—Trotzky, in an interview with foreign press representatives here, predicted that the Genoa conference will be a failure unless the United States enters with ready hands. This, he said, would "make possible the finding of the center of the world's political equilibrium."

"America's attitude toward Russia is enigmatic", said Trotzky. "She helps to feed the famine sufferers more than other nations, but she has refused to voice her political attitude."

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 17.—Twenty-four European nations have been invited to the Genoa Conference in addition to the United States and Japan. It is still doubtful whether the British Dominions will be represented.

Dangers Of The Dah Ma Loo - - No. 4

—By Arcady.

You, perchance, have tried to give complete and comprehensive attention to the sidesteppings and other vagaries of a streak of lightning. And, also perchance, you may have thought that you could follow such phenomena in their chalkings of the vault with a reasonable degree of proximity. This qualifies you for entry into the elementary class for study of the eccentricities of the Chinese cyclist. Concerning this erratic demon of our city's so-called thoroughfares Mr. Bruce Hopper once wrote that a particularly limber and gracile snake, after trying earnestly to follow a rider's tracks for a quarter of a mile, slithered into a dark corner and bit itself into six pieces. The Chinese bicycler, in the opinion of Arcady, new staff artist of THE CHINA PRESS, constitutes one of the most prevalent perils awaiting the pedestrian on Nanking Road. Others will be portrayed in succeeding issues.

CABLES TO BOTH U. S. AND EUROPE NOW INTERRUPTED

Messages From Shanghai Now Can Be Forwarded Only By Roundabout Routes

Due to breaks in the cable lines of the Commercial Pacific Cable Company and of the Eastern Extension, Shanghai is virtually cut off from communication with the rest of the world today. The cable situation is perhaps worse than it has been in several years and probabilities are that it may not be remedied for several weeks.

By roundabout routes messages still can be sent to Europe and America. Messages for America can be filed to go from Shanghai to Hongkong, thence to Singapore, thence to Sydney, Australia and thence by way of Fanning Island to Vancouver, British Columbia, but the burden that had been put on this route has become so heavy that only urgent messages at urgent rates are being accepted.

Messages to Europe can be filed from Shanghai to Hongkong, thence to Singapore, thence to Calcutta, thence to Alexandra, thence to Gibraltar and thence to London.

A third possible route for messages both to Europe and America is by way of the Great Northern Telegraph Company from Shanghai to Chefoo, thence to Vladivostok and Irkutsk and across Siberia to Petrograd and thence to London and European centers. This route for messages since it has been reopened, has been regarded as dubious by reason of Soviet Government control over a long section of the line, Soviet censorship and generally disturbed conditions in Russia.

The break in the line of the Commercial Pacific Cable line, the normal route for messages to America, is between Midway Island and Hawaii and the break in the line of the Eastern Extension, the normal route for messages to Europe is in the Red Sea. No date when service on these two lines will be resumed can be announced at this time.

Shanghai Shivers As Weather Dealer Issues Coldest Day

Yesterday was the coldest day of the year. According to many people it was the coldest day of any year. Throughout its length there could be heard in all quarters of the city the cheerless chatter of molars, incisors and other bridgework and the low, menacing chuckle of the coal dealer. The mercury was not much in evidence.

According to the official figures from Siccawei the temperature at one time during the twenty-four hours reached a point of enthusiasm which tallied with the 30-degree mark on the tube, and at others sagged to 23. Siccawei, however, is a lot further South than the point at which the weather reporter is engaged in keeping the oil from freezing up his typewriter.

Hongkong Ship Strike No Nearer Adjustment; No Trouble Likely Here

Announcements Issued By Local Offices Of Two Passenger Lines That Their Ships To U. S. Will Not Be Delayed

According to advices received in Shanghai yesterday the seamen's strike at Hongkong which has about paralysed coastal shipping and is holding in port more than a hundred river steamers is no nearer adjustment, though shipping companies have been making desperate efforts to keep vessels moving. The shipping companies maintain that the demands of the men cannot be met due to the present business depression, while on their part the sailors are holding firm to the demands they have made for higher wages.

Of the three big passenger liners that were delayed at Hongkong by the strike—the Taiyo Maru of the T.K.K., the China of the China Mail and the Monteagle of the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services—but one has been able to get away. The Taiyo Maru, held up for a day by reason of the strike, adopted summary measures, discharging its small Chinese crew at Hongkong with the purpose of coming on to Shanghai and sailing from here to Japan to recruit new workers there. The Taiyo Maru, therefore, will arrive here today and will sail in the afternoon with passengers and mail for San Francisco by way of Japan and Honolulu. It is not known when the China and the Monteagle will be able to leave Hongkong.

FEARS ALLAYED

Fears that the Chinese crew of the Empress of Russia of the C.P.O.S., due to arrive tomorrow from America, will desert the ship here have been more or less allayed and it is probable the vessel will continue its voyage south on regular schedule. This is true also of the Siberia Maru of the T.K.K., due to arrive here tomorrow from San Francisco.

Announcement has been issued by the Shanghai office of the Pacific Mail that its steamer, the Hoosier State of the Pacific Mail, though it has been delayed by the strike, will be able to sail nearly according to schedule as the steamer is being manned by a Filipino crew as far as Shanghai where it is planned to replace the Filipinos with Chinese.

Therefore the Hoosier State which was scheduled to sail for San Francisco from Shanghai on January 25 probably will be able to sail from this port on January 27.

It is announced also that sailings of Admiral Line steamers will not be delayed by the strike. The steamer Wenatchee of the Admiral Line is now in Southern waters and is scheduled to sail for Seattle on January 29 from Shanghai. The Shanghai office of the line announced yesterday that the vessels will sail on schedule, however the strike develops, as this steamer is manned by a complete crew of Americans and has no Chinese on board. The Wenatchee is due to arrive here on January 28 and will sail the following day.

P. AND O. BOAT SAILS

Advices received yesterday by the Shanghai office of the P. and O. line brought the word that the P. and O. steamer Nagoya, which has been at Hongkong, sailed from that port at 9 o'clock yesterday morning and will arrive here on Sunday morning.

By reason of the strike various measures have been adopted by agencies representing coastal lines. The Jardine and Matheson steamer Kumsang is being dispatched to Swatow instead of Hongkong and is to await instructions there whether to proceed to Hongkong. The steamer sailed yesterday with 500 tons of cargo to be trans-shipped to Hongkong and about 1,500 tons of cargo for Swatow and other coastal ports.

Fears that labor troubles with seamen would develop at Shanghai have been more or less set at rest in the past 24 hours, particularly as crews manning vessels destined for Southern ports other than Hongkong have evinced no disposition to be troublesome and have made no threats. It is known, however, that Shanghai sailors' organisations affiliated with the striking bodies in Hong-

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ADOPTS HUGHES PLAN FOR AN 'OPEN DOOR' INQUIRY

International Board To Examine Existing And Future Concessions In China; One Clause Held Up Temporarily

JAPANESE AND FRENCH WANT DELAY

Baron Shidehara Says Suggested Scheme Is Wider Than Original Hay Definition In 1899; Americans Present Rail Proposal

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Jan. 18.—The Far Eastern Committee has adopted the major portion of the proposal made by Mr. Hughes for the establishment of an international board to examine existing and future concessions in China. Action, however, has been deferred regarding the fourth clause under which the Powers would submit to the board concessions appearing to be inconsistent with other concessions and the principle of the Open Door. It is understood that the Japanese and French delegates objected to this clause and desired further discussion of it, the French suggesting an amendment to prevent interference with existing concessions.

Baron Shidehara declared that Mr. Hughes's definition of the Open Door was wider than that of Mr. John Hay in 1899 and that concessions obtained from China since 1899 should therefore not be subject to the new definition.

The American delegates put forward a resolution expressing the hope that the future development of the railways in China would enable the Chinese to effect their consolidation into one Chinese-controlled system with provision for foreign financial and technical assistance if necessary. Sir Auckland Geddes presented a motion opposing discrimination with regard to passengers and shippers on Chinese railways on the ground of nationality and providing for reference of any instances to the international board.

Washington, Jan. 19.—The Chinese and Japanese delegates have reached an agreement whereby the iron and coal mines in the Kiaochow leasehold will be operated by a company formed under a special charter by the Chinese Government.

The Japanese will be permitted to invest capital in the enterprise to an amount not exceeding the Chinese capital.

Washington, Jan. 18.—The communiques issued with regard to the meeting of the Far Eastern Committee show that Mr. Hughes submitted on Monday a draft resolution laying down the principle of the Open Door which was essentially embodied in yesterday's revised draft. Sir Auckland Geddes suggested the establishment of a court of reference to which matters coming within the scope of the resolution could be submitted. Mr. Balfour spoke similarly and declared that the old practice of spheres of influence was intolerable to the Conference. Mr. Hughes expressed appreciation of Sir Auckland Geddes' suggestion. Signor Schanzer said that Italy agreed with the spirit of the proposal.

Sir Auckland Geddes subsequently declared that all the points were now fully safeguarded and that the British Delegation accepted the resolution as it stood. M. Sarraut questioned the extent to which it would be possible to define the different concessions or what constituted a monopoly. Mr. Hughes gave an explanation with which M. Sarraut expressed satisfaction but the latter gave it as his opinion that Article IV might result in the compromising of the existing rights and that general revision of all existing contracts was in no wise justified. It was therefore necessary that Article IV should leave no doubt thereanent and it would be necessary for him further to examine the text.

Baron Shidehara said that he agreed with the general principles of the draft but desired time to study it. The meeting then adjourned.

(Special To The China Press)

Washington, Jan. 17.—The Senate today adopted the resolution introduced by Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois which calls on the State department to furnish information regarding the financial affairs of the various European nations, with particular regard to the amounts now being expended by these nations for military purposes.

Liner Taiyo Maru Sails For America With Mails Today

Mail for America is being dispatched today on the T.K.K. liner Taiyo Maru, which sails for San Francisco by way of Japanese ports and Honolulu. The vessel is due off Woosung from Hongkong early today and the tender with incoming passengers is expected at the Customs Jetty about 9:30 o'clock this morning. The outbound tender for the ship with passengers and mails is to leave the jetty at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

Registered mail to go on the Taiyo Maru closed at 6 o'clock yesterday evening and ordinary mails close at 8:30 o'clock this morning at the American Post Office.

Two consignments of mail from America are to arrive tomorrow, one on the C.P.O.S. liner Empress of Russia, which has 579 sacks of mail matter for the American Post office, and one on the T.K.K. steamer Siberia Maru which is arriving from San Franisco by way of Honolulu.

WOMAN DELEGATE TO LABOR CONFAB GIVES TALK TODAY

Miss Zung Wei-tsung, recently returned to Shanghai from Geneva, Switzerland, where she was a delegate to the International Conference of Working Women, will tell of her experiences and impressions at an open meeting to be held at 5:15 p.m. today in Martyrs' Memorial Hall, Y.M.C.A. building, 120 Szechuen Road.

The meeting has been arranged by the National Committee of the Young Women's Christian Association, of which Miss Zung is a member. In addition to reporting on the activities and accomplishments of the labor conferences Miss Zung, in her address today, will tell of her experiences in the factories and cotton mills of England, where she studied especially the welfare work which is being done and the working conditions among women and children there.

In referring to the employment of women and young children in factories, Miss Zung said that the program worked out by the International Congress of Working Women and presented for consideration to the International Labor Conference which convened directly after the Women's Congress, put a very hopeful side to the momenteous problem of the future welfare of the race.

Lights Out An Hour In Central District

Late diners in the downtown district were left with forks poised in the air unexpectedly last night at precisely 9:20 o'clock and then, after the old reliable tallow tapers were brought into action by scurrying boys, were obliged to finish their dinners by candle light. This happened when all of the Central District of the Settlement was plunged into darkness when the lights failed.

For the space of an hour the downtown streets were in darkness and establishments like newspaper offices that rely on electric current to carry on had to shut down. As unexpectedly as they went out the lights came on again about 10:20 o'clock.

Repeated inquiry at the Municipal Electricity Department offices finally brought forth the reassuring and courteous explanation from the foreigner on duty—issued through the No. 17 boy—that they would probably be able to issue a report as to causes today.

Commander Sonoda, in reply, said that he trusted that Anglo-Japanese unity and concord would continue and that the two navies would remain on terms of good comradeship. Japan, he added, was proud of being Britain's friend.

Harpooning Bears In Alaskan Waters

INTL.

Ever hear of such a thing? Likely not, yet this is a popular out-of door sport of Uncle Sam's Eskimo wards, dwelling on the coast of Alaska, Mr. Polar Bear, when Summer comes and the frozen waters are broken up into floating ice-cakes, is unable to get about in his accustomed manner, and being a good swimmer he takes to the water to go from place to place, so he may continue his travels. When afloat he is to an extent at a disadvantage, and the Eskimo hunters then go after him in any and all kinds of craft which can be secured. Being experts with the harpoon, they use this instrument of capture, because the rope which is attached to the harpoon prevents the animal from sinking beneath the surface, as he would if shot. The sport is said to be full of thrills and excitement, as the Polar bear is a fierce fighter when aroused.

Hongkong Ship Strike No Nearer Adjustment

kong, are inclined to be in sympathy with the strike.

A little over a year ago the Seaman's Union of Shanghai made certain demands for increases in wages which were granted. On July 1, 1920, Chinese seamen received an increase of five dollars per month as a result of the demands made by the Seamen's and Firemen's Guild in Shanghai and a meeting of Butterfield and Swire, Jardines and the China Merchants decided on the following increases:—$5 for seamen and firemen and $2 for stewards, boys and cooks.

On an ordinary coastal boat about fifty Chinese seamen are employed, and the wages bill would be increased by a thousand dollars a month on each vessel if the concessions now asked are granted. On the larger boats the increase would be greater. For instance, on the Indo-China boats plying between Shanghai and Calcutta some $2,000 extra per month would have to be paid.

INCREASE GIVEN

In the case of the Empress vessels, which employ a Chinese crews of 500, with the exception of the Monteagle and the Empress of Japan, which have a Chinese crew of some 200 on board, the pay roll would be swelled considerably.

Shipping men here state that the demands made in Hongkong at this time come as a surprise and say that it is unusual for a strike to be called just before the Chinese New Year when the Chinese are anxious to get as much money as possible with which to meet their year's debts.

The steamer Tungshing of Jardine Matheson and Company and the Sulyang of Butterfield and Swire sailed yesterday for Hongkong and Canton and the Jardine steamer Kwongsang is scheduled to sail for the South tomorrow morning. The Hsinwah and Kwanglee of the China Merchants' Steam Navigation Company are detained at Hongkong and the Kwangtah is on its way to Hongkong. The Nagoya, P. and O., was due to sail from Hongkong this morning but no word was received up to noon today.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, Jan. 19.—Between 50 to 60 men of His Majesty's Navy under a naval officer are manning the river steamers Kinshan and Heungshan. The steamer Heungshan is leaving for Canton this afternoon for the purpose of bringing in food and provisions. These steamers are maintaining a daily service between Canton and Hongkong but will not carry passengers. A company of armed men of the Wiltshire Regiment are guarding the river-steamer wharves.

Hongkong, Jan. 19.—The Secretary for Chinese affairs has issued a proclamation to the effect that the shipping companies have cancelled their offers of increases of wages to the seamen but are prepared to consider the question of the inadequacy of wages on condition that the seamen return to their ships.

A Chinese newspaper writer commenting adversely on the Union's attitude, was intimidated and warned against the repetition of criticism of the Union.

The steamer Kinshan departed for Canton this morning.

Hongkong, Jan. 19.—The seamen have withdrawn their revised proposals and reverted to their original demand for 30 and 40 percent increases.

The Captain of H.M.S. Curlew took charge of the steamer Kinshan last night, with the Curlew's Engineer Commander-in-charge of the engine-room staff of that vessel.

Hongkong, Jan. 19.—There is little likelihood of an immediate settlement of the shipping strike as companies operating steamers now held up say that they are unable to grant the increases demanded because of the existing business depression. They state that they are experiencing the worst period of "bad times" in history. They also assert that an increase in wages to seamen will necessitate a raise in freight rates.

About 50 Chinese seamen are employed on the coast steamers and shipowners point out that the cost of operation would be increased about $1,000 a month if the Union's demands are granted. The expenses of the Indo-China Steam Navigation Company's steamers, operated by Jardine, Matheson and Company between Hongkong and Northern ports, would be increased about $2,000 a month, it is stated.

The Canadian Pacific Steamships, Ltd., with two big Empress liners now on the trans-Pacific run and a larger steamer coming to Hongkong for a Chinese crew, will suffer most. There are 500 Chinese employed on the Empress of Asia and Empress of Russia.

Soviet Envoy To Italy Pessimistic

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow, Jan. 14.—Mr. Verovsky, the representative of the Soviet Government in Rome, who recently brought to Moscow the provisional Russo-Italian Trade Agreement, signed by the Italian Government on December 27, related the condition in Italy to a Rosta correspondent as follows:

"Italy sees no end of the economic crisis and industrial depression. The depression is especially keenly felt in the steel industry, which flourished during the world war on account of the demand for steel. Many enterprises which were started during the war have either closed or are on the verge of failure. The reasons for the present situation are complicated.

"The Italian warehouses are overstocked with manufactured goods for which there are no markets. This leads to an industrial standstill and bankruptcies. It is characteristic to point out that some of the industrial enterprises are being purchased by the capitalists of defeated Germany. The main articles of export from Italy, wines and fruits, find no outlet to the northern countries which used to be the main consumers."

BOMB EXPLOSION CRACKS WINDOW AT SINCERE STORE

A bomb explosion, evidently arranged as part of a scheme to extort money from the Sincere Company, occurred shortly before midnight Wednesday just outside the Oriental Hotel, the damage being confined to the cracking of a window of the Sincere store.

The bomb was of the customary cigarette tin variety, judging by fragments picked up after the explosion, and was evidently fired by a fuse. Two Chinese policemen were in the immediate vicinity at the time but neither could throw any light on the question of who might have placed the missile on the window sill.

After the incident it was learned that on January 3 a bomb had been found in the cinema hall of the Sincere roof garden, the discovery being followed next day by receipt of a letter demanding the payment of $20,000.

PEKING STUDENTS SEEK ANNULMENT OF 21 DEMANDS

Representatives Of Sixteen Schools Adopt Resolutions

(Chung Mei News Agency)

Peking, Jan. 16.—After their first attempt to meet had been frustrated by the police, members of the Peking Students's Union finally held their meeting yesterday afternoon in the Peking National Teachers' College with representatives of sixteen schools on hand. Four decisions were reached in regard to the attitude of the students on public questions involving the present cabinet and the negotiations over Shantung.

It was first decided to oppose the redemption of the Shantung Railway through a Japanese loan, and, in order to bring pressure to bear upon the government, representatives of the schools will call this afternoon on Dr. Yen. He will be requested to instruct the Chinese delegates at Washington to stand firmly for the original demands made in regard to Shantung and the redemption of the railway by Chinese raised money, and failing in this to withdraw from the conference.

The second resolution passed concerned the abrogation of the Twenty-one Demands and again Dr. Yen will be asked to instruct the delegates to uphold the Chinese position and to make known to the members of the various delegations the desire of the Chinese people to see these secret and unjust demands abrogated. The students will further communicate with the British conference delegates through the British minister in Peking, and urge them to support China in this step in order to maintain peace and justice in the Far East.

The third point on the student program is the reinstatement in office of Tsao Yu-lin and Lu Chung-yu. A letter will be addressed to these officials who have once before felt student wrath through their pro-Japanese activities, advising them to give up the idea of resuming their political life as long as the student union remains in existence.

The final question to be taken up was that of the performances to date of the Liang Shih-yi cabinet. Student opinion was much opposed to the new regime and it was decided to draft a resolution setting forth the failures of the cabinet, a declaration which is now being prepared and which will be made public within a few days.

He held his first clinic at the dispensary of the Hospital for Joint Diseases, in New York City, where an entire floor of the big building had been placed at his disposal. For three hours the sixty-three-year-old Austrian wizard of joint diseases conducted an examination of the seemingly endless stream of unfortunates who thronged the place. The photographs show a scene in the operating room, with Dr. Lorenz at work on his first patient. In the group, from left to right, are: Dr. Lorenz, Dr. H. C. Frauenthal, Dr. G. G. FIRE BRIGADE SAVES BIG BLOCK ON FOKIEN ROAD

Fire which threatened to develop into very serious proportions broke out shortly before 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning in the center of a large block west of Fokien Road near Ningpo Road.

The cause of the blaze is unknown and the police and fire department officials are making an investigation, since the observation of the latter was that the flames spread with undue rapidity while the damage done was more than is usual in the class of building affected.

The outbreak evidently started in a piece goods hong at 206 Hang Fun Loong and when Central division of the department arrived they found this building wrapped in flames and the roof and top ceiling of 205 well alight. Wood fronted buildings on the opposite side of the narrow alleyway were just breaking into flames and the fire generally was spreading in every direction. Extremely lively work was necessary to save the entire block but the firemen checked the advance and in about 20 minutes had the situation in hand.

The piece goods hong, contents of which were insured for Tls. 8,000, was badly damaged and considerable damage was also done to Nos. 205 and 371.

AMERICAN 'WETS' START FIGHT TO ANNUL 'DRY' LAWS

Ohio Voters To Pass Upon Beer And Wine Proposal

(China Press Service)

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 17.—W. L. Stanton, vice-president of the National Association Against Prohibition, today announced that a movement had been started to nullify the Volstead Act in Ohio.

Mr. Stanton declared that permits would be sought for the manufacture and sale of light wines and 1.17 percent beer, and declared that this issue would be carried to the voters of Ohio at the coming elections.

"If we are successful in Ohio," he said, "the movement will be extended to all parts of the country."

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 18.—One rum runner was arrested and a fishing boat was captured last night by the Coast Guard when an attempt was made to land one hundred cases of bonded whiskey, smuggled from Canada.

Washington, Jan. 18.—Senator Freilnghausen of New Jersey today presented to the Senate a petition signed by 15,000 citizens of New Jersey appealing for modifications of the Volstead Act.

Quebec, Jan. 18.—Provincial Premier Taschereau has prepared a report for presentation to the legislature showing that government profits from liquor sales in Quebec will pay off the public debt in twenty years, maintain roads, and provide a fund for educational purposes.

He said that the Quebec liquor laws have proved successful legislation from a financial standpoint, adding that "no drunken educated men were to be found in Quebec, but there are more in prohibition communities as in New York, for example."

Persistent Burglar Of Lowder Residence Finally Strikes Snag

There was formerly a pitcher which recurred once too frequently at the spigot, and something of the sort might be said of a Chinese who appeared at the Mixed Court yesterday charged with sundry burglaries committed, at the home of Mr. Gordon Lowder, Commissioner of Customs, who resides at 107 Bubbling Well Road.

This Chinese was formerly employed by Mr. Lowder as a servant, in which capacity he showed much less efficiency than in the gentle art of larceny. The first onslaught on the Lowder lares and penates took place on May 13, 1921, when a felt hat and a raincoat vanished. Three days later an overcoat did a similar fadeout. On the 29th of the same month a pair of brown boots went the identical burglarious route. After which there was a lull. The impending arrival of the China New Year, however, evidently set the erstwhile houseboy to conning over his sources of monetary supply for on the eighth of the current month there disappeared from the Lowder residence a second raincoat, two felt hats, an umbrella and a pair of crystal snuff bottles. Mr. Lowder must have felt somewhat overworked in the matter of selecting raincoats by this time but the feeling was doubtless accentuated on Wednesday morning when he awoke to find still a third of these garments gone, together with two more felt hats, a pair of boots, a pair of gloves and another umbrella.

A bit later in the day Chinese Detective Constable No. 77, passing along Thibet Road, saw the ex-houseboy carrying part of the loot and took him to the station for an examination which resulted in the discovery that the articles had been taken from 107 Bubbling Well Road.

The prisoner implicated two others and all appeared at the Mixed Court yesterday and were ordered remanded in custody for two weeks, during which time the police will try to connect them with other delinquencies.

Say Germany Asks Return From China Of Bonds And Funds

Second Round Scottowe Cup On For Tomorrow; Inter-Police Match Today

Police, School And Club "B" To Fight For Lead For Trophy

In the second round for the Scottowe cup, which is to be played tomorrow the Police by virtue of their victory from the Football Club in the first round by a score of four to nothing stand out as probable victors which will more or less clinch their place at the top of the league.

The Public School team which defeated the Engineers two weeks ago and surprised the football talent of Shanghai also must be regarded as in the running for the trophy. The Football Club seconds which won from the Customs team in the first round at four to one showed considerable strength and may yet give a good account of [illegible].

The St. [illegible], supplemented by substitutions from the Portuguese Club, on their one to one draw with the Recs showed a quality of football which must be taken into account in the race for the finals for the Scottowe Cup.

Tientsin Well Beaten At Hockey

(Chung Mei News Agency)

Peking, Jan. 17.—Peking's ice-hockey invaders returned here from Tientsin well beaten.

Tientsin's star combination trimmed the American Marines on Saturday evening to the tune of 6 goals to nil, while on Sunday morning the Peking Ice-Hockey Club seven went under before a slight different Tientsin combination.

Peking didn't have a chance in either game, as the Tientsin players outclassed the athletes from the capital in team-work, speed and condition.

The Wharton Cup match is only three weeks away, and it looks like easy money for Tientsin at the time of writing. Practice can do much, however, and, if Peking will only realise that it is up against the real thing and then get down to hard practice for that real thing its team may have some chance of winning when it goes on the ice at Tientsin on Feb. 4.

Daily practices are to be held on the Peking Club rink henceforth, four times a week after dinner and twice a week—on Tuesdays and Fridays—before dinner, if all the players attend these practices regularly Peking should play at least creditable hockey for the rest of the season. But to beat Tientsin they have got to do more than that. They have got to be whirlwinds.

New S. V. C. Range Nears Completion; Lecture Hall Ready

As the weather is likely to be inclement during February, the permanent staff of S. V. C. headquaters will not attend normally at the Range on Tuesdays and Thursdays during that month for the supervision of Parts I and II of the Musketry Course. They will, however, attend on any particular one of these days on the application of Unit Commanders on the understanding that at least three men will turn up.

The lecture hall on the top floor above the Handquarters Offices is now ready for use. The Commandant would be glad to have suggestions for subjects of Corps lectures, to be given either by himself or by any member of the Corps who has special knowledge of the particular subject concerned.

Among other matters of interest, members of the Corps might like to know something of the concentration movement of the original B. E. F., this being a subject on which the Commandant has particular knowledge.

The construction of the new miniature range on the roof near the new gymnasium is proceeding satisfactorily, and the Sclane target apparatus has already arrived in Shanghai.

S. V. C. Notes

There will be a mounted parade of the drivers of the Battery this afternoon at 6 at the Gunshed, and director work for gunners.

A meeting of the Signal Section has also been called at 6 p.m. today in the new Lecture Hall in the Headquarters Building. Important questions affecting this section of the Battery will be brought forward, so every signaller is especially urged to be present. No uniform.

The annual general meeting of the Battery will take place on Monday next at 9 p.m. in the new Lecture Hall at H. Q. The accounts will be presented, committees elected, etc., and more interesting matters put before the meeting for discussion. No uniform.

Since the arrival of the "Hows" the Battery has been carrying on with the old field gun team equipments, viz., collar draught. The new harness which has been expected for many months has now arrived and will shortly be taken on charge. It is adapted for teams of six and is entirely breast-draught, dispensing with the many gadgets that have rendered hooking-in a work of time and trouble.

"B" COMPANY, BRITISH

Attention of all members of "B" Company, British is called to the special parade to be held tomorrow night.

The next weekly drill will be held at the Drill Hall on Tuesday, January 24 at 5:45 p.m. The attendance at last week's drill was a great improvement on previous ones.

A football match against the Maritime Coy. will be played on Sunday at 3 p.m. In the event of any doubt as to the match being played owing to inclement weather, members of the team are requested to phone Sergt. Boyde, W. 744 before 1 p.m. Sunday.

Dr. Cox Heads Chess Club At Annual Meet

The annual general meeting of the International Chess Club was held in the Club Room, Soochow Road on Monday.

Dr. Stafford M. Cox, in the chair moved the adoption of the committee's report and accounts for the year ended October 31, 1921.

Although a distinct revival in the Club's activities can be recorded, it once more proved impossible to complete the various Club Competitions. During the season social evenings were organised and were fairly well attended, and a challenge was received from the Hongkong Chess Club for a match by cable.

Two games were arranged, the first of which was lost by Shanghai, but the other game had been abandoned. Great difficulty had been experienced in finding suitable premises, and eventually the present room at the Rowing Club was secured.

The officers and committee were then elected as follows: President, Dr. Stafford M. Cox, Vice-President, Mr. C. P. Dawson. Committee, Mr. M. D'amant, Mr. A. E. Gutierrez, Mr. G. O. Jackson, Mr. G. M. Jaffe, Mr. J. H. Kortwright, Mr. C. B. Morrison, Mr. E. H. Shibbeth, Mr. V. K. Vykhristoff, secretary and treasurer Mr. J. A. Jackson.

The question of obtaining more suitable premises was then discussed. A room was only required in the evenings with one evening per week for match games etc., when opportunity should be given for members to play later than usual.

Usually the present room had only been occupied from 5 to say 8 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays etc., when opportunity should be given for members to play later than usual.

As it had been decided to admit lady members it was advisable to obtain better accommodation and it was agreed that it would be much better if it could be arranged with some cafe in town to allow chess to be played there. By this means members could obtain refreshments and especially on the evenings when they wished to play later than usual. Eventually a special committee was appointed to go into this matter and after making inquiries to report to the Committee.

Ball Players Come Expensive These Days

Here is the ball player who cost the New York Giants $75,000, the biggest price ever paid for a minor league player. And this minor leaguer is practically untrained and untried and must go through another year in the Pacific Coast League. He will not be delivered to the Giants until 1923. Mr. James O'Connell looks much like all other ball players. He has two eyes, two ears, a mouth, a nose and a winning smile. He has two legs, and they are said to be capable of moving him around very, very fast. He has two arms. His left one throws a ball very, very far and very accurate. He hit seventeen home runs last year and had a batting average of .387 in 170 games. He can play at first base, but McGraw is said to have decided to develop him as an outfielder.

(French Wirless through Reuter's)

Paris, Jan. 18.—M. Peycelon has been entrusted with the post of secretary-general of the Olympic Games Committee. M. Peycelon, whose duties will be chiefly administrative, will collaborate closely with the four commissioners-general, M. Frantz Reichel, Paul Rousseau, Mont profit and the Marquis de Polignac.

S. R. A. Shoot Set Up To Daylight

The Shanghai Rifle Association competitions scheduled for Monday have been set up to 7 a.m. Monday instead of 6:45 a.m. because of the dull light prevailing at the latter hour. The competition will be shot rain or shine.

Shanghai Scottish Co. (S.V.C.) Notes

The tactical excrcise for the Shanghai Scottish Co., S. V. C. as ordered for last Sunday proved to be a great success despite the rain. Starting on a two miles from various points, the three columns soon obtained contact first by visual signalling and later by flank files.

The deployment from column of route to artillery formation and then to successive waves across the open was most realistically carried out.

Lieut. and Mrs. Campbell were "At Home" to the Unit after the operations when a pleasant hour was spent.

Members are reminded of the grand smoking concert on the occasion of "Burns Night" at the Masonic Hall when an excellent musical program is promised.

On February 5 the company will lunch together at the Rifle Range after which the monthly cup competition will take place.

Now that the American football season is well over and football by the fireside, rather than on the field, has become the order of the day, and sporting experts, have been devoting their attention to those mythical combinations that honor the player and furnish endless food for argument during football's off-season.

Thus the dopesters give out the above All Eastern first and second elevens for what they are worth, and with the prediction that it would be pretty hard to select an eleven to beat either of the two named above.

There have been two difficulties in selecting this season's All Eastern Eleven. For the line positions there are many good, but few unusually good, candidates—no players that have stood out head and shoulders above their competitors as in many past seasons.

In the backfield the position in the other way, and the difficulty has been to make from the plethora of stars a selection that does justice to the players and, at the same time, makes the strongest offensive and defensive combination.

For the end positions Roberts of Center College and McCullom of Penn State are the pick. Roberts was the best end in the East during the past season and is an all-around player of unusual ability. McCullom makes a good running mate for Roberts and was a good catcher of forward passes and fast down the field under kicks. Snively (Princeton) would have had a great season except for injuries, while Jordan (Pittsburg), Parr (Navy) and Macomber (Harvard) were all first class ends.

At tackle Stein, the Washington and Jefferson captain was the most powerful and versatile player. He is fast, strong on both offense and defense, and Roman Coins Found at Bisceglia.

"Miracle" Reveals Long Lost Hiding Place of Billions Buried to Escape Hannibal's Clutches

ITALY has gone on the greatest treasure hunt of all times. Not only her people, but the Government has started digging for gold and silver and precious stones, and all because a monk in far away Jerusalem had a vision which he imparted to a visiting Italian woman. And she in turn told the Government officials in her native city, with the result that what is thought to be a treasure vault, 30 feet long and 20 feet wide, has been uncovered. Furthermore, a bowl of wonderful workmanship, ancient Roman coins and other antiques have been found near the vault, lending color to the story told by the monk.

The widow, Maria Benincasa, deeply religious, decided to visit the Holy Land after the death of her husband. She lived in Bisceglia, a small fortified seaport on the southeastern coast of Italy, between Trani and Bari, the latter the capital of the province of that name.

In Jerusalem she gave money to charity, and while thus engaged came across Father Benvenuto, a Franciscan friar. Italy was his native land, and he grew much interested and asked many questions. The Widow Benincasa told him of their country's financial plight—of the poverty of the people—of the hard times since the burden of tremendous war taxes.

Father Benvenuto promised to pray for help. That night he read his breviary far into the night. With a final prayer he lay down to rest. He dreamt—confused at first. Then a clearly cut figure came across his subconscious vision. It was an armed form of heroic proportions—grim of visage and stern.

"I am the spirit of Hannibal, the conqueror," the vision seemed to say. "I devastated Rome and laid her waste. I massacred her people and looted her riches. And I sleep uneasy."

Father Benvenuto began to pray aloud.

"I seek to make atonement," interrupted the spirit. "Rome can regain her riches if she will but search."

The monk was now fully awake—wide awake—anxious to hear.

"Let them look on the highlands behind Bisceglia, where the Romans of other days buried their treasure to cheat my legions of their due."

And with that, the vision faded and Father Benvenuto rubbed his eyes and pinched himself. Yes, he was awake—there was no doubt of that. Puzzled he sat and awaited daylight. He sent for his countrywoman and told her of the night's weird happening.

"It is the will of God!" exclaimed the woman. Then she started on her homeward journey, fully determined to impart her knowledge to the authorities. But in Bisceglia none would take her seriously.

But Signora Benincasa was persistent. She went to Bari and laid her story before the authorities there, but they, too, would have none of her. Not a bit discouraged, she packed her grip and went straight to Rome. She was shunted from one official to the other. And to every one she told her strange story. Of course, none believed.

Then one day last month she ran across an official who was willing to take a long chance. He interested the Minister of Public Works, with the result that the Widow Benincasa received an audience.

When she had told her story, the minister gave her permission to dig for Hannibal's treasure—at her own expense. So the Signora Benincasa went home, hired a score of men and started her treasure hunt. After a fortnight's vain search, one of the diggers unearthed a Roman coin of the time of Scipio Africanus, the Roman general who defeated Hannibal and drove him back to Carthage.

Instantly the Widow Benincasa's stock soared sky high. Volunteers came in swarms and half the town was turned upside down. Every garden was uprooted; only the cemetery was saved from the artificial earthquake. Then another digger found a bowl of wonderful workmanship.

The Government in Rome was apprised and sent a squad of military to Bisceglia to guard the treasure. An official took charge of the excavations. Military engineers plotted out the ground and systematic search was begun. But for days the earth yielded nothing. Down—ten feet—fifteen—twenty—they dug. And then, one day the pick of one of the workers was broken short by compact with stone. The earth was shovelled away and there lay revealed a huge, massive slab of marble, 30 by 20 feet, bearing on its surface an engraved snake—the emblem of ancient Rome.

That night Signora Benincasa could scarcely sleep. She was too happy for words. It was not that the treasure had evidently been located, but that she had been vindicated in the eyes of her neighbors—or Bisceglia—of all Italy. And then she fell into a fitful sleep and dreamed.

The armed figure of Hannibal appeared once again.

"You will find 150 vases of silver," intoned the vision, "twenty of them filled with gold; 31 with silver. One large vase will be filled with priceless pearls and the others with rich jewels."

With that the vision faded, and Signora Benincasa jumped out of bed and rushed to the home of Captain Montedoro, to whom she imparted her dream. This time there was no suspicion of doubt. The captain jotted down the figures and in the morning ordered his men to redouble their efforts.

But try as they would, the huge slab covering the vault could not be budged. Evidently it had been cemented to the walls of the vault. So the engineers built derricks and used every means at their disposal to raise the stone. Again they failed. They thought of blasting, but feared to injure the priceless contents of the vault. So they dug alongside the walls, uncovering masonry of tremendous thickness. Steel drills broke when attempt was made to hew holes into the sides of the walls.

At this writing the engineers are awaiting the arrival of American pneumatic rock drills. With them they hope to open up the vault and unearth the treasure hidden from Hannibal 2,139 years ago.

Hannibal was a general of Carthage, a city on the northern shore of Africa, founded about 900 B. C. by Canaanites. The city was destroyed in 146 B. C. by the Romans, rebuilt and finally razed in 706 A. D. by the Caliph Abdul Melek, an Arab invader.

It was in the Spring of 218 B. C. that Hannibal began his invasion of Rome and his historic feat of crossing the Alps. Carthage in those days was the rival to Rome in commerce and culture. Bisceglia was one of the most important of the Roman seaports, whence came galleys rowed by slaves—ships laden with gold and spices and precious tuffs. Scipio, the elder, was in control of the armies of Rome.

Hannibal had gathered 90,000 foot soldiers, 12,000 horsemen and 37 elephants. With this army he crossed into Gaul—now France—and, crossing the Rhone River, advanced to Valence on the Isere and prepared for his passage across the Alps.

It required fifteen days of hard work, with the aid of the powerful elephants—which struck terror into the hearts of the inhabitants who had never before seen such huge beasts—to get to Mont du Chat and to Chevelu Pass. From there the road led along the valley of the Iser to Little St. Bernard Pass, through which the invaders entered Roman territory.

Hannibal and the Romans warred until 187 B. C., when the Carthagenians were driven into the sea and Hannibal, forced to flee, swallowed poison contained in a ring he had worn, and thus ended his life.

From that time Rome grew and prospered, but the grave of her riches remained a secret until now—when American rock drills will solve the puzzle of the treasure.

Canadian Liberals In Control Of Parliament

(China Press Service)

Toronto, Dec. 10. (by mail.)—Mackenzie King, next Premier of Canada, is probably the only person in the country today who is not surprised at the extent of his victory at the polls on Tuesday. For a week or two it had been pretty generally conceded that the Liberals would have the largest group in the new House of Commons, but the Liberal leader was almost alone in predicting that they would have a clear majority over all other parties. This majority, while small, will probably be quite sufficient for all practical purposes, particularly as the Farmers or Progressives, have the second largest group, and there is not likely to be any vital issue on which they will unite with the Conservatives to defeat the Government. On the contrary, they are likely on many questions to give the Government whole-hearted support, and it may be that there will be permanent disaffection from the ranks of the Progressives to the Liberal side.

Trend toward the Liberal side was in evidence during the last two or three weeks of the campaign. It was brought about by several factors in the situation. Outstanding among these was the conviction, which was widely held, that in any case the Liberals were going to constitute the largest group.

CONTRIBUTING FACTORS

Many electors, fearing that three groups in Parliament, none of which had a majority, would result in a period of chaos and "log-rolling," threw their support to the Liberals in order that at least one group would be reasonably strong. Others were apprehensive of the radical free trade propaganda of the Western Farmers and swung over to the Liberal group, who, while declaring in favor of revising the tariff downward, are pretty strongly imbued with Protectionist ideas. Credit must also be given Mr. King for his effective campaign, notably evidenced in his own constituency, where he accepted a forlorn hope and scored a brilliant victory.

The Farmer or Progressive sweep, which a month before the election seemed possible, did not materialise. For one reason, the new party is not organised nationally. East of the Ottawa River it had in the field only a handful of candidates, supported by feeble organisation. When it became apparent that the Progressives, no matter how well they did in the Western provinces and in Ontario, could not possibly hope to secure the largest group, considerable support swung over to the more favored Liberals. Some Ontario farmers also developed some suspicion of a free trade West. And finally in the heat of a national conflict, the old party spirit which has been more or less quiescent since the early days of the war came to life, and there is little doubt that members of the farmers' organisation deserted in the last days of the campaign to return to their old party camps.

COMPLETE REVERSAL

The disaster of the Meighan Government is unique in the annals of Canada. The Government, which under another name carried 150 seats in 1917, comes back to the House of Commons with barely more than 50 out of a ..... of 235. The Government party was beaten in the race before it started. It had irrevocably alienated Quebec on one issue and the three Prairie Provinces on another, and while under Mr. Meighan's leadership it made valiant efforts to make inroads in these territories, it failed absolutely. With its last ounce of strength it endeavored but its enemies, even when tariff supporters, would not listen. Five provinces out of nine—namely, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Quebec, Manitoba and Saskatchewan—did not elect a single supporter of the Government.

Speculation as to the effect the Liberal victory will have on the possibility of opening up negotiations for reciprocity with the United States, provision for which is contained in the new American tariff legislation, has not as yet proceeded far. If the Progressives had secured control of the new Government they would certainly have opened up the reciprocity question. What action the Liberal Government will take is doubtful. It is true it supported reciprocity in 1911, but with disastrous results to itself.

TARIFF REVISION CERTAIN

That there will be revision of the tariff is certain, despite the fact that considerable support was

German Finally Sees Why U. S. Entered World War

Berlin, Dec. 15.—A view most unusual for the German mind of the motives which caused the United States to enter the world war is expressed in the writings of Dr. Frederic Dessauer, a well known politician, member of the German Center party and a professor of physics. Following his return from a study tour of the United States, Dr. Dessauer is publishing his American impressions in a Munich periodical called the Hochland.

In discussing the motives of the United States in entering the war he asserts that the attitude of the United States was brought about by the almost unanimous feeling of the American people which shaped and drove forward the official Washington policy. He expresses the opinion that the United States would not have entered the war had not the German war measures and submarine activities been such as to take no regard of American lives.

As soon, he says, as Germany recognised that the clever policy of the Allies in trying to interest the United States in the war made it impossible for Germany to draw America in on her side she should have done everything possible to induce America to keep neutral. However, the German leaders adopted a submarine policy which was intended to menace and frighten the rest of the world. Instead of this they supplied the most effective material for propaganda in America, where the feeling of the people revolted against the arbitrary attitude of Germany at the thought of "Americans killed by U-boats."

In discussing the character of Woodrow Wilson, Dr. Dessauer declares that Wilson was not considered to be so much of a villain by German public opinion as some of his American enemies make him appear. The only trouble with Wilson, he says, was that he was too weak to insist on his program.

"Had Wilson not intervened in the fall of 1918," he continues, "the enemy would have entered Germany and would have devastated everything as we did in France, and much more so, since we were unable to resist. Our weakness was proved by our inability to check the revolution. Even if we are disappointed we must admit and recognise the truth. We owe it to Wilson that western Germany today does not resemble northern France."

U. S. WAR VICTIMS ARE NEGLECTED, PRESIDENT TOLD

Forced To "Sleep On Floor Like Cattle" In Asylums

(China Press Service)

Washington, Jan. 17.—Representatives of the disabled veterans of the World War have sent a memorial to President Harding in which they charge that 3,500 mentally disabled veterans confined in institutions throughout the United States are victims of "such gross indifference, neglect and profiteering as to constitute a black reproach on the nation's honor."

The immediate removal of these men to federal institutions is urged in the memorial.

At the Longview Asylum in Ohio, the veterans charge, the buildings are so overcrowded that twenty-four former soldiers are forced to sleep on the floors like cattle, and men with curable diseases in many other institutions are "being doomed to permanent insanity because of a lack of facilities for caring for them properly."

In nine institutions in Ohio where cases are taken under contract with the government, the memorial continues, a profit of 300 percent is being made from the $547 annual maintenance fee paid by the government.

Cecil B. DeMille's production "Don't Change Your Husband"
An ARTCRAFT Picture
He will pile up a million dollars in Wall Street if his wife asks him to.
Mighty men of untold wealth listen at his knee when he cares to speak.
But his wife sniffs his onion-laded breath, and gasps for air.
She feels like a worm when he walks beside her.
Remember the shabby wife in "Old Wives for New"? Here's the untidy, neglectful husband. Watch Cecil B. De Mille pillory him.

"HALF A CHANCE"
with Mahlon Hamilton and Lillian Rich
From the novel by Frederic S. Isham
A PLAY OF GREAT ACTION
A man who can fight with the fury of a demon and love with the tenderness of a youth. A man who in poverty and in wealth, in shame and in honor, commands in turn your pity, respect and admiration because through it all, he is the epitome of virile manhood.
You'll be carried away to the squalid underworld, the prize ring, the water front, the courtroom, the roaring ocean, the lonely island and the dazzling society.

ALL EASTERN ELEVEN SELECTED BY EXPERTS

clever at analysing his opponents plays. He is the only lineman who gave the signals for his team last season. Keck of Princeton, while not as good as in 1920, is still a great player. On the offense he was an inspiration to his team, and he let very little go through him when the other side had the ball. King of the Navy was another fine tackle, while Kane, the Harvard captain, played splendidly in his big games. Into (Yale), Gulick (Syracuse) and McMahon (Penn State) were other tackles of more than average ability.

Brown of Harvard was the best guard in the East last season and, perhaps, the best in America. His play in the Harvard-Yale game was nothing short of brilliant. On the offense he opened big holes for his backs, and defensively he not only stopped plays that came his way, but broke through consistently to nail plays before they got started. Schwab of Lafayette is not far behind Brown and is full value for the other position, while Bendenk and Baer of Penn State, Cruikshank (Yale), McCarthy (Lehigh) and Hubbard (Harvard) were all strong players.

LARSEN BEST CENTER

Of the many brilliant centers during the past season Larson, the Navy captain, is the pick. Except for his passing Larson played no better than Wittmer of Princeton, but a good center must pass well, and so Larson gets the preference. Stein of Pittsburg, Green (Army) and Shurtleff (Brown) were other centers.

The 1921 season produced more star quarter-backs than perhaps ever before. Buell (Harvard), Killinger (Penn State), Lourie (Princeton), McMillin (Center), O'Hearn (Yale) and Holleran (Pittsburg) are all players of All-American calibre, and any one of them is worthy of selection for the All-American in an ordinary year.

Killinger, Lourie and McMillin were the best football players, with O'Hearn and Holleran not far behind. But Buell of Harvard was the best general, the quarter-back who never missed an opportunity when it came and who got every ounce out of his team. And, as a quarter-back is primarily a field general, Buell gets the place.

The three running backs are Aldrich, Yale's great captain, Killinger, the Penn. State flash and Owen, Harvard's dogged and versatile line-smasher. Aldrich is also given the captaincy of this mythical eleven, for no team was ever better led than Aldrich's Yale eleven last season. Every man in this backfield carries the threat that is so essential to a strong attack in modern football, Aldrich, Killinger and Owen can, each of them, run with the ball, kick the ball and throw a forward pass. The two first named have the speed and the dodging ability for end and off-tackle plays and for running back kicks. No line in the East this year could stop Owen's plunges. Defensively the combination is also up to the mark.

A second backfield made up of McMillin (Center), Kaw (Cornell), Davies (Pittsburg) and Barron (Georgia) is little, if any, inferior to the first; while a third set of backs consisting of Lourie (Princeton), French (Army), Harlan (Georgia Tech) and O'Connor (New Hampshire State) would rank as the first in any ordinary year.

This All Eastern Eleven has the power, the speed, the punch, the kick and the threat. The line is strong on the defense and fast and intelligent on the offense. No better backfield has ever been seen together. The four men selected have literally everything that a high grade backfield requires. With Aldrich to lead the team and Buell to direct it, with McCullom and Roberts to cover kicks and receive forward passes, there isn't a team anywhere that could beat it very much.

SCHOOLS RANKED

To conclude the review of the Eastern football season eastern elevens rank as follows:

1.—Penn State.
2.—Cornell.
3.—Harvard, Navy.
4.—Lafayette, Yale, Washington and Jefferson.
5.—Army, Pittsburg, Princeton.

In making this ranking list, which is admittedly open to much discussion, consideration has been given to the all-around ability of the various eastern elevens, the nature of the opposition which they faced, the way in which they dealt with this opposition, the objectives of the various teams, their attainment or otherwise of these objectives, and the consistency of their development throughout the season.

On this basis Penn. State comes first and Cornell second. Penn. State faced a lot of hard opposition and came through the season with some notable victories and no defeats. Cornell completed an easy schedule in an impressive manner. The Cornell team was evidently powerful, but it had no real test of this power. A game with Penn. State, Harvard or the Navy would have shown whether or not Cornell was as good as he looked.

Similarly Lafayette and Washington and Jefferson, unbeaten teams, had a comparatively easy season. Harvard played through a hard schedule and came through with victories over Georgia University, Indiana, and Yale; played a 21-21 tie with Penn State, and lost to Center and Princeton. But the Harvard team that beat Yale was a lot better than the team that just lost to Princeton; while the Harvard eleven that opposed Center was composed largely of substitutes. So Harvard is ranked third with the Navy and ahead of Lafayette and W. and J. Yale is classed with the two teams last named, while the army, Pittsburg and Princeton are grouped alphabetically in class five.

From the Middle West there comes a new claimant to championship honor—Oberlin College of Ohio. Oberlin beat Ohio State, 7-6, early in the season. Ohio State beat Chicago, 7-0. Chicago in turn beat Princeton, 9-0, while Princeton beat Harvard, 10-3. As Harvard tied Penn State, 21-21, and as Penn State is universally regarded as the champion team of the East, Oberlin fans claim that comparative scores show that their eleven is better than anything in the East at any rate. But a great deal can be proved by comparative scores, and then disproved by taking other scores and comparing them.

Foch Rests Hand On Liberty Bell

Ferdinand Foch, Marshal of France, the greatest and oldest Republic in the world outside of the United States, paid a visit to America's most historic city, Philadelphia, and, at Independence Hall, saw the famous old Liberty Bell, which proclaimed the independence of the United States of America, one hundred and forty-six years ago.

Journalists Make Slavery Charge

(China Press Service)

London, Jan. 18.—Two correspondents of the Westminster Gazette, who returned here recently from Abyssinia declared that slavery exists openly there, and said that at the British legation full slaves are owned as servants.

They declared that slave owners are permitted to enter the British compound to capture runaways, and that many of the slaves are British subjects captured by slave raiders in British territory.

Inventor Of Gas Mask Honored With Plaque

London, Dec. 17.—A corporal who became a savior of his country was honored when a memorial plaque to the late Lieut-Col. E. F. Harrison, Controller of Chemical Warfare, was unveiled in the Examination Hall of the Pharmaceutical Society.

This corporal was a martyr of science, a victim of his own discovery. He died on November 4, 1618, from pneumonia aggravated by exposure to gas during the course of his experiments.

He was the man who saved the British army. He was 47 when he joined the Sportsmen's Battalion as a private in 1915, and when the Germans made their devastating gas attack in the Ypres salient in the same year, Harrison, who possessed high chemical qualifications, was transferred as a corporal to the special branch of the Royal Engineers.

He was the inventor of the gas mask (the box respirator) which every soldier in France and Flanders carried with the same devotion as that with which he carried his rifle. The gas mask beat the Germans, and its inventor in 1917 was made a Lieutenant-Colonel and finally became Controller of Chemical Warfare.

Shortly before his death he was to have been promoted to the rank of brigadier-general and awarded the Legion of Honor. He died without receiving these honors, but every soldier who carried a gas mask in the great war will bless the memory of Corporal Harrison, who died a hero and a martyr.

Unties 316 Nuptial Knots In 30 Seconds

London, Dec. 17.—Sir Henry Duke, president of the Divorce Court, established an easy record when he united 316 nuptial knots inside of thirty seconds. The previous record, in November last, was 297.

The business was transacted by the Judge saying: "Decrees nisi in cases 1 to 316 made absolute."

Even the reading of the names by a registrar has been dispensed with recently.

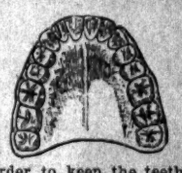
LIVING COST FALLS

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 18.—The cost of living fell another 7 percent in December. On Dec. 31, it was the lowest since March 1918, namely 92 percent above the pre-war cost.

KINGMAN & BROS.

How to Preserve the Teeth



In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific precaution must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dental periostitis, esteo-periostitis, necrosis of the jaw, etc., may arise. During the process of ingestion there are settled on the teeth some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar which possesses a morbid power of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees, absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments specially devised for that purpose.

Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription Fee of $10.00 per head to be paid in advance.

The work to be done by Dr KINGMAN to the subscribers consist in:—

(1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly
(2) Filling with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
(3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

Less Wise Than A Hen?

"When the worms are scarce, what does a hen do? Does she stop scratching? She does not. She scratches all the harder. A lot of business men have been showing less sense than a hen since orders became scarce. They have laid off salesmen; then have stopped or reduced their advertising; they have simply resigned themselves to inaction and; of course, to pessimism. If a hen knows enough to scratch all the harder when the worms are scarce, surely business men, who are supposed to possess a moderate amount of brains, ought to have gumption enough to scratch all the harder for business." Epidemic Of Flu Spreads In Britain

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 18.—Far from disappearing rapidly, like in 1918, the present influenza epidemic is spreading and has broken out in many new areas during the last few days. Neuralgic and rheumatic conditions and sometimes boils and abscesses are features of the attacks.

The submarines at Portland are unable to accompany the Atlantic fleet on its annual exercises owing to influenza among the crews.

The Dover Municipality has prohibited the attendance of children in cinemas and has closed the schools.

Ten percent of the teaching staffs of Northampton are ill.

FRANCE HARD HIT
(China Press Service)

Paris, Jan. 18.—Influenza is rapidly becoming epidemic in France. It first appeared here in December, and its ravages are now growing day by day.

Chihli Petitions For New Railway

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Jan. 16.—The Chihli Provincial Assembly has, through the Civil Governor of this Province, drawn the attention of the Ministry of Communications to the importance of the Tsangchow-Shihshiachuang Railway and has expressed the hope that the Ministry will proceed with the laying of steel as soon as possible.

In reply, the Ministry has pointed out that, while it was possible to complete construction of the grade by employing famine laborers last year, it is now faced with the lack of funds. It therefore contemplates raising the necessary capital by means of a domestic loan, and hopes the Chihli Assembly will render it any assistance it may require in this undertaking.

Australian Trade Envoy Appointed

(Reuter's Service)

Melbourne, Jan. 18.—With a view to fostering Australian trade in the East, a conference of State-Premiers, presided over by Mr. Hughes, decided to appoint Mr. E. T. Shaf Australian representative in the East, at an annual salary of £2,300. It was also decided to arrange for adequate Australian representation at the forthcoming Singapore Exhibition.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

January 19, 1922

Spot and forward bar silver were each up ⅛d. in London yesterday.

The New York price advanced to 65⅞ cents, and the London-New York cross rate to 422⅝.

The official quotations here today were unchanged from yesterday, but the market from the opening was on the easy side and developed considerable weakness during the course of the day.

In the early morning Sterling was done at 3-6⅛ for cash, 3-6⅛ for January, 3-5⅛ for February and 3-5¼ for March.

Gold Dollars were done as high as 74½ for cash, 74¼ for January, 73¼ for February and 73 for March.

In the afternoon, however, there were buyers of Sterling at 3-6 for January, 3-5⅜ for February and 3-5⅛ for March.

There were buyers of Gold Dollars at 74 for January, 73 for February and 72½ for March.

There were some sellers at a fraction below these rates, but banks as a whole were not keen to sell, and it would appear as if the tendency of the market were downward.

India bought silver in London yesterday and the Continent sold, the market closing uncertain.

New York's cable of the 17th instant report their market as being weak, with sellers and no buyers.

Exchange Market

Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follows in their exchange circular for week ending Wednesday:

Exchange:—The London price of silver at 35d. is ½d. lower than last week, our rate for T.T. on London has responded by a drop of ½d. to 3s. 6d. Very little exchange business in connection with imports or exports is passing. Deliveries of imports show improvement, but exports remain in a stagnant condition. Money generally is easy, indeed remarkably so for this time of the year and our exchange market shows a weak tendency. At the close the premium over official rates for early delivery was reduced to ¼d. i.e. 3s. 6¼d. for T.T. on London and rather buyers at that. Local conditions tend towards lower rates of exchange.

Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 30,230,000, a decrease of Tls. 200,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $21,480,000, a decrease of $430,000.

Estimated value in Tls. 45,695,000, as against Tls. 57,835,000 held at this time last year.

Siberian Issues To Come Up At Washington Soon

(Dalta News Agency)

Washington, Jan. 16.—The documents published by the Delegation of the Far Eastern Republic relating to a Franco-Japanese agreement against Russia are still being discussed by the press and in the public circles. The attitude of the American press is generally favorable to Russia. The Americans who were before in the Far East have published statements confirming the documents concerning Japan's policy in Siberia. Mr. McCormick has published a story regarding the search of Major Clark by the Merkulofists at Japanese instigation. Public opinion is now greatly interested in the Siberian question.

Merkulofist delegates have just arrived. They proclaim themselves democrats opposed to the intervention. However, they have not attained any success.

The invitation extended to Soviet Russia to join the Genoa conference creates a favorable impression. The Siberian questions are last on the agenda and will be considered this week. The American Government stands firm in its decision favoring the complete evacuation of Japanese troops.

PRESS COMMENTS

In connection with the documents published by the Delegation of the Far Eastern Republic and the subsequent French and Japanese denials, the following additional press comments are interesting:

The Washington Times: "There is no doubt of the authenticity of the protocols and secret communications suddenly disclosed. There should not be any further doubt in the mind of Senators, Congressmen or any sensible American. We are dealing at Washington with the same lying, treacherous, faithless and thieving diplomacies that always administered the affairs of England, France, and Japan, precisely as the same kind of diplomacies that administered the affairs of the former Russia, Germany and Austria."

The New York Nation: "Japan has used the dark weapon of the counter-revolution and civil war. She encouraged Ungern and Semenoff in their murders of helpless people. She disarmed the native Siberian forces who gathered to protect themselves. The Far Eastern Republic limps along, hampered at every step by Japan. Vladivostok is ruled by a band of thieves without even the support of the conservative Russian population. Northern Sakhalin is virtually annexed to Japan. The favorite Japanese explanations for the presence of their troops in Siberia is the necessity of protecting their own citizens. Unfortunately for the excuse, the latest Japanese census reveals the fact that the entire Japanese population in the Maritime province is less than 5,000 of which 4,361 are concentrated in Vladivostok. Their army of 10,000 men saddles the people of eastern Siberia."

WANTS JAPS TO MOVE

The Washington Herald: "Information is given that Japan intends to participate in the conference at Genoa in view of Russia's participation, because of Japan's relation to Siberia. Japan's status in Siberia will be discussed at Washington and undoubtedly an agreement will be sought reconciling Japan's interests with an immediate withdrawal from Russian territory. Transferring this question to the Genoa economic conference is impossible and Japan will not reverse the position she assumed.

"Hughes' doctrine declaring political and territorial integrity of Russia applies with special force on Siberia, the only part of Russia occupied by a foreign army. Japan's announced intention of withdrawing from Siberia is taken literally by all nations, but unfortunately no date of withdrawal is fixed and Japan has raised conditions which must be examined by the Washington Conference. An ideal adjustment of the Siberian question closely affecting China as well as Russia would be fixing the date of withdrawing troops by Japan, leaving the Russian people to settle their own troubles."

The Heroes' Memorial At Canton

BY ORRIN KEITH

BACK in the days of the Manchus, before China's Revolution became respectable by achieving success, a number of enthusiasts in the cause of freedom under the leadership of General Huang Hsing, attacked the Yamen of the Governor of Kwangtung. They were successful in getting into the yamen but soon became lost in its maze-like passageways. They lost touch with each other and fell an easy prey to the defending bannermen. Seventy-two were killed or captured. The captured soon followed their comrades in death by the decapitation road.

The victims of this foray were designated the "Seventy-Two Heroes" and their deeds were dwelt upon in the song and story which were woven into the further propaganda of the revolutionaries. When the great movement was at last successful, or seemingly so, in 1912, an agitation was started in the Chinese National Association to build a fitting monument to commemorate the sacrifice of the seventy-two. Local associations all over the world raised money and sent it back to Canton for the proposed memorial.

Today it stands nearly finished. Out in the park-like country back of Canton, and within sight of the thousands and thousands of older graves which crowd the surrounding hills, rises this exotic stone structure. There is nothing like it in all China. It is doubtful if there is anything like it elsewhere in the world. For it is typical of the transition through which China is passing. It is another evidence of the determination of the Cantonese to break away from the ancient ways and to adopt the customs and the methods and even the art of the West.

The most striking thing about the monument is its permanence. It is all of stone and bronze. Nowhere is there any of the old wooden temple effect with its much repainted beam-ends and cornices. The impermanence which Lafcadio Heam declared was the essential characteristic of the East is wholly lacking. Here is all the immutability of the monuments of the West.

In the foreground at either side is a stone table surmounted by a bronze censer. These are close to the native art and are well done. Back of them in the center is a stone pavilion some twelve feet in height which lovingly shelters from the anger of the elements a diminutive Egyptian obelisk. This pavilion has two functions, however. Not only must it shelter the obelisk, it must also bear upon its back a life-size replica in stone of the Liberty Bell!

But this is not all. Thebes and Philadelphia having been levied upon to contribute motives, New York and France must make a joint contribution. Back of the pavilion stands a very acceptable little building in the Trianon style, which, left alone, would have made a handsome background. But it was not to be left alone. On its roof is raised a cross-section of a huge stone pyramid, its angular steps running up one side and down the other in striking contrast to the more graceful lines of the building below. Each of these blocks which goes to make up this flight of steps is heavily inscribed in gold letters, one side in English and the other in Chinese, with the name of one of the associations which subscribed funds to the undertaking. The names of the Heroes are cut in stone under a pavilion to one side, but the place of honor is given to the contributors.

The pyramid section is flanked on each side by bronze urns and about a third of the way up the steps is a pair of Chinese lions. Both of these are purely Chinese and well-done accordingly. Another third of the way up the steps is what looks for all the world like a pair of geese fleeing from an approaching automobile. These I was informed were doves of peace! The crowning glory, however, is yet to come. Standing upon the highest stone and surveying with a cynical air the scene below, is a diminutive copy, or better caricature, of Bartholdi's statue of Liberty Enlightening the World! She would have been much more impressive if her head was not half-drunkenly tossed to one side and if she was not hopelessly cross-eyed! As it is she injects a note of playful humor which seems wholly out of place.

The whole monument seems typical of the character of its builders and the spirit of the men it commemorates. It is earnest of a great determination to select the best of the civilisation of the West and to give it to China. The idea and the sentiment are superb. But the workers are raw; their methods are crude; and the result, from the artistic point of view, leaves much to be desired. Yet the attempt itself is entitled to commendation. It is only through actual working in the new medium of Western art as well as Western science and philosophy that the skill and perfection which come from long familiarity can be obtained. The Seventy-Two Heroes tried and failed. So did their monument. But each took China a step forward on the way she is to go.

Correspondence

AN OPIUM STORY

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir.—We were glad to see from the interesting article on opium in this morning's "Press" that your "Elsie" is turning her clever brain upon what might be called the really burning questions of the day. We have been sending her "brain waves" for some time.

After listening to portions of the aforementioned article, Amah exclaimed, "Let them punish those who plant the poppy, the Japanese in the north and the people of India! These are the real offenders, not the poor fools who take the drug. Ah! Why does the Almighty allow this devil?" She listened to the explanation that it was doubtless permitted on the same principle that she let her grown son go his own way, that we must be free agents, but was in haste to tell the following "history."

"In the far off days when Beku had newly cleft earth from heaven, men were innocent and tractable. No jails were needed but if one should chance to fall from grace, for the moment, the judge had only to draw a circle on the ground and bid him stand therein; he would do so till told to go.

"Poppies were grown for their beauty till some nameless one discovered the narcotic effect of the drug. (Amah speaks quite high-faluting language when telling stories) They used it for pain in the heart and other diseases, but (facilis descensus Averno) this drug, which may be such a kind friend, soon fell into general abuse. Poor farmers burned the stuff under an eggshell, and when the wind blew too strongly for this frail wee lantern, shaded it with a fertiliser bucket. At this the Highest was so angry that He sent a rain of blood for three days and three nights. All on whom the blood fell died. And it transpired that all who smoked opium died. So the people were frightened and mended their ways and returned as nearly as possible to those of the Age of Innocence. Of course centuries must elapse before we can purge away the effect of so vile an abuse of the good things given by Heaven." Yours faithfully,

ATHON ALVIUS.

BISHOP ROOTS ON THE WUCHANG STUDENTS' STRIKE

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir.—On my way to Shanghai from Hankow a few days ago I saw your last Sunday issue of THE CHINA PRESS, in which appeared a news item from Hankow under date of January 10 telling of a strike at Boone University, Wuchang, about ten days ago, in which all but the Christian Scholarship boys had left the institution. Doubtless you will have a fuller statement of the actual facts by return mail after your Sunday issue reaches Hankow.

Meantime allow me to inform you that your correspondent has rather seriously mis-stated the facts, of which I can vouch for the following: there was a strike at Boone University which seriously interfered with discipline and study among the students for nearly a week. The cause of the trouble is not altogether clear even yet, but appears to have been mainly the restlessness of a few students who wished to avoid the approaching mid-year examination and a few others who disliked the discipline of the newly introduced organised play and particularly the Doctor who was naturally unpopular with malingerers. None of the college students—about 70 in number—and none of the sixth form students supported the strike when the facts of the situation were explained; and altogether only 80 out of about 400 students actually left on account of the strike. Twenty of these eighty will not be received back under any conditions. The others may come back if a proper apology is received after a specified time.

As THE CHINA PRESS is widely read by friends of Boone University, I trust you will insert a correction of your former news item. Yours very truly,

LOGAN H. ROOTS.

Ulster's Losing Fight Revealed By Letters

London, Dec. 14 (By Associated Press).—Premier Lloyd George gave out correspondence exchanged between himself as head of the government and Sir James Craig, dealing with the Irish negotiations. These letters bore dates from Nov. 10 to Dec. 5. They were supplemented later by a letter made public by Sir James addressed to the prime minister under date of July 29, which he said was necessary to maintain the sequence of events.

The Ulster premier in these letters unequivocally declared that Ulster would not enter an all-Ireland Parliament, but was willing to accept three out of the four proposals of the British government.

Mr. Lloyd George argued that two dominions in Ireland was indefensible. Eventually two alternatives were offered to Ulster, the one that she retain her existing powers, with additional guarantees if she entered the Irish Free State; the other that she retain her present powers, but in rights and obligations of Great Britain, with the proviso, however, in the latter case, that her boundary would be subject to revision.

FOUR LETTERS

The correspondence comprises four letters sent by Mr. Lloyd George and three by Sir James Craig. Mr. Lloyd George's last letter covered a copy of the Irish treaty. To this letter Sir James thus far has not replied. On November 10 the Prime Minister wrote to Sir James as follows:

"The time has arrived when a formal consultation between His Majesty's Government and the Government of Northern Ireland is necessary for the further progress of the Irish negotiations. The settlement toward which His Majesty's ministers have been working, and which they believe is not unattainable, is closely based upon proposals made by His Majesty's Government July 20."

The Prime Minister then enumerated the main principles of such a settlement, declaring that if Ireland should give allegiance to the Throne she would take her place in 'the partnership of free States comprised in the Empire."

Other points mentioned was a provision for naval security, which the British deemed indispensable for Great Britain and overseas communication. The letter continued:

"The Government of Northern Ireland would retain all the powers conferred upon her by the Government of Ireland act; the unity of Ireland would be an all-Ireland Parliament, upon which would devolve the further powers necessary to form a self-governing Irish State."

MANY DANGERS

Continuing, the letter said:

"Northern Ireland will no doubt see many dangers in a settlement on these lines. It may be objected, for instance, that the patronage involved in the various common departments, such as the post office, customs and excise, might be unfairly exercised on religious or other grounds, or that though Ulster would retain control of its education and kindred subjects, the Irish Government would be in a position to withhold the funds necessary to defray the administrative cost.

"Moreover it might be feared that if the all-Ireland parliament were in control of the import and export trade, the industries of Ulster would be imperilled. His Majesty's Government recognise the force of these objections and desire to consider, in consultation with yourself and your cabinet, how they can best be met. They invite your cabinet to discuss with them the best means for dealing with these and similar matters."

CRAIG'S REPLY

In his reply, dated November 11, Sir James Craig wrote:

"The Government of northern Ireland feels constrained to observe that it is with surprise they find the question of allegiance to the throne and membership in the British Empire included among the heads of your proposals, inasmuch as it has more than once been unequivocally stated by yourself in the published correspondence with representatives of southern Ireland that these two fundamentals were not open for discussion.

"As a final settlement and supreme sacrifice in the interests of peace, the Government of Ireland Act of 1920 was accepted by Northern Ireland, although not asked for by her representatives."

Sir James expressed surprise that Mr. Lloyd George should think it necessary to emphasise that he did not intend to take away any of the powers given as recently as last year. And continued:

"An all-Ireland Parliament cannot under the existing circumstances be accepted by Northern Ireland. Such a Parliament is precisely what Ulster has for many years resisted by all means at her disposal. And her detestation of it is in no degree diminished by the local institutions conferred upon her by the Act of 1920.

ANOTHER ALTERNATIVE

"There is another alternative which His Majesty's Ministers do not appear to have considered. It is that reserved powers, instead of being entrusted to a common authority, should be conferred on the governments of Southern and Northern Ireland within the areas of their respective jurisdictions. The principle underlying the Act of 1920 was equality of status and powers for the two governments in Ireland, and this principle should, in the opinion of the Government of Northern Ireland, be observed in the transfer of reserved services.

"It is true that it might involve northern Ireland losing her representation in the imperial parliament. But, while northern Ireland would deplore any loosening of the tie between Great Britain and herself, she would regard the loss of representation at Westminister as a less evil than inclusion in an all-Ireland parliament.

"It will be seen, therefore that the government of Northern Ireland are prepared to accept out of the four proposals put forward by His Majesty's Government. The fourth proposal they are unable to accept for the reasons stated. They respectfully invite the attention of His Majesty's Government to the alternative suggestions here submitted."

Premier Lloyd George wrote on November 14.

"We have received with great regret your refusal to enter a conference unconditionally, to demand as between two sets of ministers of the crown preliminary limitation on freedom of discussion is contrary to the spirit of mutual loyalty and co-operation which animates his Majesty's Governments in all parts of the Empire.

"We regret it the more because your counter-proposal that Southern and Northern Ireland should be constituted into two separate dominions is in our judgment indefensible."

Sir James Craig replied on November 17:

"You express regret that my colleagues and I have found it impossible to meet you in formal conference so long as your proposal that we should agree to the establishment of an all-Ireland parliament was open to discussion to enter a conference under such condition would, in our view, be dishonest, since we know that in no circumstances would Ulster accept such a position, involving permanent sub-ordination to the Sinn Fein. We are strongly convinced that it would only tend to make a settlement more difficult and encourage false hopes, if even by implication we discussed a condition which cannot be conceded.

CRAIG'S SUMMARY

"To sum up: If you force Ulster to leave the United Kingdom against the wishes of her people, she desires to be left in a position to make her own fiscal and international policy conform as nearly as possible with the policy of the mother country and retain British traditions, British currency, British ideals and the British language. And in this way render the disadvantages entailed by her separation from Great Britain as slight as is possible."

Concluding the correspondence, Sir James wrote on November 20, appointing the 23rd of that month for their interview. Mr. Lloyd George on December 9 sent a letter to the Ulster Premier, enclosing the articles of agreement signed by the British and Sinn Fein negotiators, and declaring:

"There are two alternatives between which the Government of Northern Ireland are invited to choose. Under the first, retaining all her existing powers, Ulster will enter the Irish Free State with such additional guarantees as may be arranged in conference. Under the second alternative she will still retain her present powers, but in respect to all other matters not already delegated to her, will share the rights and obligations of Great Britain. In the latter case, however, we should feel unable to defend the existing boundary which must be subject to revision on the one side and the other by a boundary commission under the terms of the instrument."

CRAIG'S FIRST LETTER

Sir James sent a telegram to Mr. Lloyd George saying:

"In order to maintain the sequence of events it is of the utmost importance that my letter to you of July 29 should be included. I therefore am supplying a copy to the press."

The Ulster Premier's letter of that date announces to Mr. Lloyd George that his proposals for an Irish settlement have been exhaustively examined by Sir James and his cabinet. It proceeds to dilate on Ulster's unabated desire to return British citizenship and to point out the sacrifice Ulster made in agreeing to self-government and the establishment of an Ulster parliament, much against our wish, but in the interests of peace."

The Division Of Silesia

Decided progress toward working out plans making effective the division of the plebiscite district in Upper Silesia between Germany and Poland was made at the first meeting in Geneva of the German-Polish Conference, under the Presidency of Felix Calonder, the Swiss statesman, according to reports sent to the German press on Nov. 26. Dr. Schiffer, former Minister of Justice in Dr. Wirth's Cabinet, represented Germany, and Ambassador Olszowski represented Poland. As provided for in the decision of the Council of the League of Nations given out on Oct. 20, this mixed commission is to examine the situation in Upper Silesia and recommend measures covering the transitory period to the German and Polish Governments for incorporation in a general convention.

While none of the delegates to the Geneva conference was inclined to minimise the difficulties of the situation in the district that had been the scene of so much bitter conflict, both Dr. Schiffer and Ambassador Olszowski issued statements, after the signing of the rules to govern the work of the commission and its eleven sub-committees, expressing satisfaction at the spirit of reconciliation displayed at the opening meeting and thanking President Calonder for his part in the proceedings.

The rules make Geneva the seat of the main commission and of the sub-committee charged with the protection of national minorities, but the other committees will be located in Upper Silesia at the points where their investigating is to be done. President Calonder is to call meetings of additional sub-committees and disignate where they are to function. As these sub-committees are under obligation to submit the results of their work to the commission's head, together with a draft of the proposed convention between Poland and Germany, not later than Jan. 15 next, they are expected to start work immediately and both Dr. Schiffer and Ambassador Olszowski are scheduled to go to Upper Silesia as soon as the investigation gets under way. President Calonder is expected to visit Upper Silesia early next month.

In a statement given to a representative of the press, Ambassador Olszowski said:

"When I came to Geneva I feared that the German plenipotentiaries might try to make the proceedings drag. I leave with the conviction that the German representatives have no intention of doing any such thing. So we reached an agreement without any great trouble. The plenipotentiaries of both parties understood that they must proceed carefully and calmly so as to avoid the necessity for arbitration. . . . As soon as the conference is ended we shall begin other negotiations with Germany over a number of other German-Polish questions that have nothing to do with the present problems."

Dr. Schiffer, in a statement to the press, said:

"With all the reserve laid upon us by our difficult situation, we German representatives must admit that the negotiations were conducted in a very agreeable way. . . . The personality of M. Calonder, who evidently conceives it's duty to consist in smoothing out conflicting interests and impartially conducting the proceedings, did a great deal toward solving the undeniable difficulties in the way of arriving at a mutual understanding. I pointed out several times during the negotiations that the problems entrusted to us are not merely economic, but also are closely connected with the fate and moral interests of the Germans in Upper Silesia."

Amateur Radoists Please Maxim

The success of amateur wireless operators in the United States and Canada in sending signals and messages to Scotland in recent tests will be revolutionary in its effect on wireless communication, according to Percy Hiram Maxim, President of the American Radio Relay League, through which the tests were made. Amateurs had believed that some of them would crash through to the other side, but that many of them would do so night after night was almost more than they had hoped for.

The technical significance of the performance lies in the ability shown to make low-powered instruments do the work which in large commercial stations requires powerful apparatus. Less than one kilowatt was used by the amateurs in transmitting three signals over thousands of miles of land and sea—for some of those far in the interior of the country got across—whereas the large stations use from 100 to 200 kilowatts. In some weather that would not check the more powerful stations they would, of course, fail, but some of their work was done under conditions that were far from ideal.

That stations as far west as Ohio were able to reach Scotland, where Paul F. Godley, the official receiver for the league, was stationed, was due partly to the relation, not always realised, which Britain occupies to America. The general direction from points in the United States is northeast. Signals from New England pass over the Maritime Provinces of Canada, and those from Denver pass over Hudson Bay. Mr. Godley expressed the belief that because of better refraction and reflection inland stations had as good a chance of getting over as North Atlantic stations. This proved to be the case.

"Our success is revolutionary in radio communication," said Mr. Maxim. "It had not been thought possible by experts that amateurs could span the ocean, and we have proved that it could be done. It means the coming of citizen communication between England and America, the coming of the day when the people of one country can talk to one another and discuss momentous affairs, without the intermediary of public or governmental agencies. What this means for the development of understanding and harmonious relationship can be better imagined than described It turns one's thoughts to the recent discussions of Mr. Wells in his history of the ideal relationships between the peoples of the world.

"It is only a matter of time when this wireless telegraph communication will be followed by telephonic communication, and when citizens of one country may talk with the citizens of another without any check upon their freedom of speech.

"The great thing about this test is that it was done by amateurs; their money and confidence put it through. They have developed super-skill in operating and supersensitiveness in apparatus. I think it will be a great surprise to all the wireless men of the world, from Marconi to the experts of the great private companies. The amateur's apparatus has been developed on the basis of love for his work; it is not the perfunctory, although skillful, performance of the hired employe."

The Radio League is divided into several divisions, covering the entire country, and there are 20,000 amateur stations operating in it. Each division has a manager, an assistant manager and district superintendents who develop long distance lines of communication and allot hours for local and long distance transmission.

The Sun A Flying Molecule

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
(Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest).

"Maybe the following question interests other readers, as well as myself: Does the sun have an orbit similar to the earth, or does it whirl through space, pulling our system along with it? W. K. S."

As far as observation can, as yet, inform us, the track of the sun through space is virtually a straight line. In reality, however, it is doubtless a curve, though that curve has no definite or permanent center of motion. Not only the sun is moving, but all the other stars are moving in various directions and with different speeds, so that the general effect of their changing attractions upon one another presents a very complex problem. The orbit of the earth around the sun is easily calculated, because the disturbances produced by the attractions of the other planets are slight in comparison with the overmastering force of the sun's attraction; yet even that orbit is not by any means a smooth, perfect ellipse.

But when we come to deal with the attractions of the stars we get beyond the range of definite calculation. About all that can be said is that there may be a general rotation of the universe around its center, but there is no great attracting body occupying a central position, as the sun occupies such a position amid its system of planets.

The stars, including the sun, of course, as one of them (and not one of the largest), may preferably be likened to the molecules of a very large gas, flying about in various directions among one another. A. S. Eddington affirms that the ultimate state of a system of gravitating stars will be the same as that of gas. "The ultimate law of velocities," he says, 'will be the same as in a mass of non-radiating, monatomic gas under its own attraction, and, moreover, there will be equipartition of energy between the stars of different masses, just as if they were atoms of different weights."

The dignity of the sun suffers from this likening of him to a mere flying molecule of gas, but what shall we say of the effect upon the dignity of his minute and obedient little satellite, the earth, which, instead of awakening our deference with its petty patches called empires, and its microscopic piles of brick, stone and metal, known as "great capitals," appears to the steady eye of science as only a dust mote chasing at the heels of its master, an atom! I once had a letter from a reader who was quite indignant because, he said, I had libeled the earth by belittling it unduly. In his eyes the earth was very great and fully worthy of all our attention and respect.

But I think, on the contrary, that it is the universe which is libeled and unduly belittled, because so many millions of people do not see things in their true relative proportions. Their eyes are kept close to the ground, and virtually they never see the sky, especially when, at night, the universe shines through it. They are earth-bound; they measure all things by the little earth standards; they accept meekly their apparent imprisonment by the jailer Gravitation on this insignificant globe, and forget that, in their minds, they are free.

Why will they not take and enjoy their freedom? The universe is theirs, and yet they persist in disregarding it and in looking upon the earth as more important than all the rest. What matter that, confined in our gravitation-bound bodies, we cannot go to eat and drink on another world in the light of another star. Are not all the stars ours for contemplation, for intellectual enjoyment? Is it not a greater triumph of human power to have discovered that it would take 1,300,000 earths to equal the sun in size and 27,000,000 suns to equal the star Betelgeuse, than to have erected a pyramid in Egypt or to have piled up some millions of dollars for "moth and dust to corrupt"?

What other achievement of man, working with his face on the ground, is for an instant comparable in splendor with his discovery of this very thing that we have been talking of, viz.: the flight of the sun and earth through the stupendous abyss of space, among the gleaming constellations, from side to side of the mighty spiral of the galaxy? Is a little cockleboat to be regarded by its inmates as greater than the ocean that tosses it, and greater than the vast fleets that surround it? Is relativity forever to be a trap and a blind for human intelligence?

The earth is little, but man is great—not physically, but mentally and morally. He is so great that he is not troubled by the littleness of the place where his feet stand. He feels that he is greater than any material thing, greater than the whole material universe. It is only a playground for his mind. Its suns are but atoms to his mental eyes. He towers above them all and perceives their relations and the laws that govern them. For he is made in the image of God.

AUSTRALIAN LINES COMPETITION BEGUN

As a step toward revival of its business, the Toyo Kisen Kaisha has recently decided upon participation in the Australian service and has already assigned three large ships to that run in competition with the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, the Osaka Shosen Kaisha, the East Australian Steamship Company and the Taiyo Kaiun Kisen Kaisha which are members to the Australian Conference. It is said one of the company's ships bound for Australia will leave Yokohama in the course of this month.

It appears that the Toyo Kisen Kaisha planned participation in the Australian service when it disagreed with the Nippon Yusen Kaisha on the question of freigh rates last year. When the N.Y.K. learned of the prospective T.K.K. competition in the Australian service, it tried to prevent the participation through conference, but failed. Now that the T.K.K. is strongly determined to run its ships to Australia in defiance of the opposition of the conference, a serious freight competition is expected. It is said that the transportation of wool from Australia is under the monopoly of the conference, but the Toyo Kisen Kaisha's ships are thought likely to obtain liberal shipments from Australia to Japan in view of the confidence placed by Australian shipowners in the line. The forthcoming competition will be watched with the closest attention.

French Bourbons Hold Forth Again

(Special To The China Press)

Le Mans, France, Dec. 10. (by mail).—The pomp and state of the old monarchist regime has been revived in one of the most magnificent chateaus in France, that at Bonnetable, in Sarthe,, where the Duke and Duchess of Doudeauville are offering hospitality to the Grand Duchess of Luxemburg and her Consort, Prince Felix of Bourbon-Parme.

The princely couple intended remaining only a few days, but the sudden illness of the Grand Duchess forced them to prolong their sojourn. In view of the probability that the illness would last several weeks the hosts transformed entirely the style of life at the chateau.

Local gossip describes it as a miniature Versailles court, with strictly regulated ceremonies and etiquette, flunkeys in silk stockings, breeches and powdered wigs, and an army of butlers and servants to wait upon the large company of guests from the chateau region, including Prince and Princess Sixte of Bourbon and the Duke and Duchess of Ouchy.

Navy Will Stay Loyal—If Paid

(Chung Mei News Agency)

Peking, Jan. 16.—The naval commanders headed by Admiral Chiang Chen have replied to the Minister of the Navy, according to the Peking Shun Tien Shih Pao, and given their reasons for recently seizing the salt revenues of the two huai districts in Kiangsu. They declare that to seize salt revenue is no novel step on their part as it is often done by the army.

If the government would pay off all their arrears and set aside a definite fund for future payments all of the cruisers will return to their stations and remain loyal to the government. There is no question in their action of approval or disapproval of the Liang cabinet and there is no idea of supporting any independence movement.

Dishonesty On Increase In U. S.

(Special To The China Press)

New York, Jan. 18.—The American Surety Company announced today that it had paid the heaviest claims in history last year because of increasing crime and dishonesty in business. Last year's claims were 71.8 percent higher than 1920.

British Warships Are To Have "Badges"

(China Press Service)

London, Dec. 15.—The ships in the British Navy are now supplied with badges like the distinctive mark of famous British regiments. So far only three brass plaques have been furnished with a device cast on them, one for the quarter deck and the others for the bows. It is not yet planned to let the ships' companies wear the devices as part of the uniform, though commanding officers at their own expense in several instances have had plaques made for the small boats and the device engraved on plates and other table services.

Battle cruisers and battleships have a design illustrative of the ship's name in a circle. A pentagon is used for light cruisers and a diamond for auxiliaries. The devices usually contain heraldic allusions to the arms of one of the famous commanders of ships that had had the name.

Cuba To Raise Big Loan In U. S.

(China Press Service)

Washington, Jan. 17.—The State Department today announced that the government of Cuba had been notified that it may negotiate for a loan of G. $5,000,000 in the United States. A further loan of G. $50,000,000, which the Cuban government had suggested, will be dependant upon reductions in the Cuban budget, the State department declared.
